

BIG LATHE TO SCRAP HEAP

Was Manufactured To Turn Granite Monoliths
At Wharf Quarry, Vinalhaven

A recent issue of the Barre (Vt.) Daily Times carried a feature story of much Knox County interest being reminiscent of the days when those mighty columns were being quarried in Vinalhaven for the Church of St. John the Divine in New York City. The article follows:

A "story behind the news" was disclosed today in connection with Friday's announcement that a 100-ton steel lathe had been credited to Barre's quota in the scrap drive. Members of the local committee hailed the acquisition as the heaviest single piece credit yet added to the Barre scrap pile, and even challenged any other community in Vermont to equal it for size.

To some of the older granite men in the city, delving into the history of the machine, the contribution was interesting for a different reason. For the 60-foot lathe is undoubtedly the largest granite cutting machine ever built. It was put together for a special purpose more than 42 years ago. Assembled originally on the shores of tide-water in Vinalhaven, Me., it was designed to turn eight 56-foot columns for the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City. The machinery was erected at the Wharf quarry, where the granite for the columns was produced. It had been intended that the columns should be in one piece, each with a diameter of six feet and weighing 270 tons per column when quarried.

Quarry formation at Vinalhaven forbade headgrain, and as the direction of the rift and architectural principles required that the columns be turned with their long axes at right angles to the rift the strain in the great lathe came upon the weakest spot of the stone. The first 56-foot stone put into the lathe broke with a long diagonal fracture. It, therefore, became necessary to make the columns in two sections, one 38 feet in length, the other 18. It is in two enormous drums that each of the tall polished columns stand in New York's great cathedral today.

Transportation Barred Barre Granite

Local granite men recall the fact that transportation difficulties thwarted the desire of the cathedral architect to have the finer grained and darker Barre granite used in the columns. Even with water transportation available at Vinalhaven and again at the point of delivery in New York the problem was a perplexing one.

It was at this juncture that the resourcefulness of a Barre concern (Continued on Page Eight)

[EDITORIAL]

The editorial in Tuesday's issue, captioned "Rockland of a Night" appears to have created widespread comment, both here and abroad. Some readers have expressed regret that the issue should have been raised, but the predominant reaction is one of complete agreement with our statement which may be summarized as one of wonder that such paradoxical conditions exist. President Smith, whose observation led to the writing of the editorial, informed The Courier-Gazette yesterday that the Navy Department has altered its position, to the extent of declaring that a shipyard must adhere to all State laws in the region where it is located, and that it is his intention to do so when notified by the State. From among several communications of endorsement we have selected the following striking letter written in Portland by Capt. C. W. Carver, a well known mariner whose home is here. He says:

I read in your editorial in regard to Rockland's dim-out with a great deal of interest. As I was in Rockland last week I noticed how dark it was there, in comparison with other Atlantic coast towns. I recently made a trip up the coast from Norfolk, Va., as commander of an Army transport, and had a very good chance to see dim-outs in many places. As Mr. Smith said, "Annapolis was as light as day." Atlantic City, N. J., right in the danger zone, was brilliant as a carnival on Tillson avenue in the old days. New York's Great White Way had no dim-out only above the 15th floor. New Haven and New London were as light as Rockland is when all lit up. Cape Cod Canal was dimmed out, but lighter than Rockland streets. Gloucester was the only port as dark as Rockland. Portland has a dim-out, but we can see to walk around here. Sorry to see my home town so dark, but Rockland proper can take it if they have to.

SHELIVING BAD NEWS

When the Navy Department recently gave us the two months' old news of the sinking of three of our cruisers it was a most unwelcome let-down to those who had thought we had won a decisive naval victory, and has left everybody drawing his own conclusion as to whether there may not be other bad tidings awaiting the Department's date of telling. There are, of course, reasons—excellent diplomatic reasons, no doubt—why such important tidings are belatedly given to the people who are footing the bills, and to parents whose sons have made the supreme sacrifice, and perhaps Uncle Dudley of the Boston Globe made a correct deduction when he said in Wednesday's issue—

Many of the most telling blows in sea warfare are delivered by submarines which make a point of diving before the torpedo hits its mark. There is no disposition on the part of the commanders to hang around watching for results. That is one of the ways in which sea fighting differs from land fighting. If a city is taken the whole world knows it very soon. When a warship is given a mortal wound the crew which fired the effective shot may not be at all sure what happened. That is the reason for naval secrecy about damage received in a battle.

It is evident that people are disposed to relish good news and turn aside from the bad. But this mixture of sweet and sour is not welcome for a nation that must have all its strength and all its nerve. If the Navy can establish the practice of withholding enemy losses until it is safe to give out our own at the same time, the public mind will be maintained in a more healthy condition. What Americans don't want is hope inflation to be followed by a jarring drop to grim reality. Let's have both together.

HE HAS A LEVEL HEAD

Gen. Douglas MacArthur answers published reports that he might run for President by declaring that he has no political ambitions whatsoever. He says:

Any suggestion to the contrary must be regarded merely as amiable gestures of goodwill dictated by friendship. The only hope I have in the world is for victory for our cause in the war. If I survive this campaign I shall return to the retirement from which this great struggle called me. There speaks the type of man in whom this country has unbounded faith. Too busy helping win the war to play politics.

NOT THE YEAR FOR FRANKS

Halloween night is close at hand and the present state of darkness in the city lends itself to the prosecution of much mischief, such as we have seen in recent years. We believe that patriotic parents will not condone such acts on this of all years. The city is not only facing the momentary threat of an air raid, but the residents are beset with difficulties which admit of no unnecessary waste or expense. Thoughtless children may well forego such pranks during this crucial period.

"RISES ABOVE POLITICS"

The new measure bringing within the scope of Selective Service 18-year-old and 19-year-old youngsters was passed by the House on Saturday and sent along to the Senate where, perhaps, an equally decisive vote will ratify the bill given 345 to 16 approval in the Lower Branch. One of the rather curious features of the vote was the position taken by Maine's Representatives. One of the four Republicans who voted against the bill was Fellows of the Third District. Oliver, not voting, was paired against the measure. Only Congressman Margaret Chase Smith of the Second District put Maine squarely behind our military authorities in support of what Secretary Stimson and General Marshall considered "must" legislation.

Again and again, Mrs. Smith has risen above politics and personal predilections to advocate and vote for legislation that would implement our war effort effectively. She has supported measure after measure in the program that has been devised to make the power of the United States greater, and to swing it into prosecution of the war. In all her course she has had, we believe, the approval of the great majority of the people of Maine. The Press Herald is not at all surprised that in the debate over manpower Mrs. Smith has again shown both insight and far-sight in standing solidly behind the general of our Army and his associates. The question was whether we are willing to toy with this war or to win it. Representative Smith chooses to win it. That is what Maine demands; and Maine is pleased that it has one Congressman who speaks for it.—Press Herald.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO WATER TAKERS

The approach of cold weather prompts the Water Company to urge its customers to heed the following suggestions:

1. Be sure the shut-off in the cellar is in working order and accessible at all times.
2. Be sure to know how the shut-off works.
3. Be sure to close it if there is danger of pipes bursting from freezing of water.
4. The metered consumer is reminded of his responsibility for the protection of the meter against freezing, hot water, or other damage.

IMPORTANCE OF PLANE-SPOTTING

As Described By Major Baldrige At a Meeting
Of the Local Officials

"Many ask 'what is the value of the airplane spotter service?'
"Here is my answer: The enemy has planes, fliers to man the planes, and, God knows, the de-several members of the ground corps who brought a sound machine, over which, at intervals, came enlightening explanations of the work.

"It's our duty to obey orders," said Mayor Edward R. Veazie.

Oscar E. Wishman, who ably directed Wednesday night's meeting.

"Only through co-operation can we go forward," declared John M. Pomeroy.

Chief Observer Austin P. Brewer, who received flag for local station.

sire and determination to bomb or invade us. Why should we take any chance, or even question the wisdom of it?"

The speaker was Major H. M. Baldrige, officer in command of the Ground Observer Corps, Boston Air Defense Wing, First Fighter Command, addressing a large group of local Civilian Defense Workers and other interested citizens in American Legion hall. Major Baldrige, who is a nephew of J. M. Baldrige of Omaha, Neb., and has visited the Smith estate at Warrenton Park, on many occasions, was detached three weeks ago from Mitchell Field, and now has charge of the ground observation work from Maine to Connecticut inclusive. A man of fine soldierly bearing, with efficiency stamped all over his features, his Rockland audience listened breathlessly to his terse, comprehensive address—and profited by it. He was accompanied here by

The Rockland Band, directed by Mr. Law, played inspiring selections.

Oscar E. Wishman acting as chairman of the evening, prefaced the program with the statement that there had been a reversal of policy through which the organization now invites publicity instead of placing the ban upon it.

Mayor Edward R. Veazie, who has worked unceasingly and efficiently with the Civilian Defense bodies said that Rockland has one of the finest organizations on the Atlantic Coast, but that we are all doing little enough when we consider what is being done in the Solomons. Commenting upon criticism occasionally heard of the officials' action, he declared that they must obey orders, and the fact that some other town has not done so is more to our credit than it is to theirs. ## The Black Cat

(By The Roving Reporter)

Two patrolmen made a hurry call at the Snow Shipyard's other day and wondering spectators saw them transfer a long dark object to the ambulance. "What's happened?" "Whose body did they have?" Those, and like questions passed from lip to lip, and a state of excitement was in the making. The long, dark object, it developed, was a roll of black duck.

Joe Hamlin of Gay street had no intention of allowing Mrs. George Carter's belated raspberries to monopolize The Black Cat Column, so he hid himself out into the garden Tuesday and picked a whole cupful of ripe strawberries, some of them as large as tomatoes—almost. Now if somebody will only bring me a box of blackberries I shall think it is still Summer no matter what the Almanac says.

In the clothing repair shop of I. Leslie Cross, next door, is a rusty old sabre which attracts considerable attention. Beneath it hangs a sign which reads "Alterations."

The proximity of the two may have no special significance; on the other hand Col. Cross, who is a Spanish War veteran may have bloodthirsty designs upon Hitler, Mussolini or Hirohito, I hope so.

Somebody has sent me a copy of the North Penn Reporter, published in Lansdale, Penn., marking the following item: "While Edna St. Vincent Millay has lived all over Europe and the Far East, as a provincial of the deepest hue, we always get a kick out of the knowledge that she actually 'got her start' in Rockland, Me., the rather crumbly little coast town which also gave Maxine Elliott to the world of art."

That guy who called Rockland "a crumbly little coast town" needn't have stopped after mentioning that it was the native home of Edna and Maxine. He might have mentioned that it also furnished a Director of the Bureau of the Budget, a member of the U. S. Maritime Commission, a United States Senator, two Congressmen, a Governor, a Rear Admiral of the Navy and several Generals.

A Civilian Defense official who had heard much about speed violations on the Atlantic Highway investigated early the other morning, and was furnished with an agreeable surprise. He was on duty there one and one-half hours, and was called upon to stop but one car. It is quite apparent that the average Knox County motorist means to obey the law.

Speaking of roses Mrs. Nellie Sylvester of Friendship has a bush with two full blown roses and Mrs. Abbyonia Murphy has one with four full blown roses and five buds. Must be getting chilly for them outside.

One year ago: The will of Lucy A. Rokes of Thomaston, leaving the bulk of her estate to Ernest Keywood, was allowed in Probate Court.—The theft of $148 from a Thomaston safe was solved by Sheriff Ludwick — Mrs. Justin Ames, 69, died in Warren.

FIVE HUNDRED YOUNG FOLKS

4-H County Contest

Around 500 Knox-Lincoln 4-H boys, girls and leaders have been invited to attend the annual 4-H county contest program which will take place in Rockland tomorrow.

For the morning program, the 4-Hers will meet at the Strand Theater at 10. After a few words of welcome by Mayor Veazie of Rockland they will enjoy a free movie which was obtained through the co-operation of Lawrence Dandaneau, theatre manager. At noon the members will parade to the High School for lunch where free chocolate milk provided by the Knox-Lincoln Farm Bureau and Round Top Farms will be given every one.

At 1, the afternoon program, to be held in the High School Auditorium, will open with singing to be led by Philip Wentworth, with Mrs. Ralph Wentworth as pianist. Mrs. Wentworth has not missed playing for a county contest in 22 years. The singing will be followed by a roll call of clubs and presentation of State Contest Delegates. Other highlights of the program will include a song by Bebe and Joan Brown of East Union, solo by Philip Wentworth of Hope, and a musical selection by Vance Norton and Ronald Lord of Rockland.

Many prizes will be awarded. John M. Richardson will award the county plaque in behalf of The Courier-Gazette and a gavel to the second highest scoring club. Announcement of junior and senior blue ribbon groups of the high ranking members in each project will be made by Anna Simpson, 4-H agent. These members will receive prizes in Defense Stamps which have been made possible through contributions by interested organizations. Charters and Seals will be awarded to clubs finishing the year successfully. Clubs finishing 100% and re-organized for 1943 will receive a year's subscription to the "National 4-H Club News."

Special prizes to be presented by Mrs. Henry Keller of West Rockport will include $2.50 to the highest scoring senior in Canning, awarded by the Hazel Atlas Company; $2.50 each to the highest scoring senior, junior and young farmer in chick raising or poultry management donated by H. K. Webster Company; $2.50 each to the highest scoring junior and senior in dairying donated by the Charles Cox Company of Boston. Mrs. Bessie Hardy, of Hope, county club project leader, will have charge of the program. The band for the parade will be in charge of Vance Norton of Rockland.

Organizations contributing to this event are: The Knox-Lincoln Farm Bureau, Camden National Bank, Rockland Lions, Camden Rotary, Boothbay Rotary, and Farm Bureau groups from Alna, Camden, Boothbay, Bristol, Friendship, Sheepscot, Orr's Corner, Montisweag, Nobleboro, Whitefield, Rockport and North Edgcomb.

Book Review

(By E. S. F.)

Under My Elm. By David Grayson. With illustrations by David Hendrickson. Publisher Doubleday, Doran and Company, New York.

Nature has her inns in this more than enchanting study of the simple life that can be experienced in a world full of turmoil and suffering one will grasp stray moments to provide refreshment for the soul and strength for the body by more contact with God's out-of-doors.

The book is a tonic in its pages of sweet and fragrant philosophy, and methods of escape from carping cares and violent shrieks of battlefields. All the writings of Mr. Grayson's lifts readers up to worlds of better understanding and desires for more intimate friendships with things to be found only in the great out-of-doors. With our world gone mad with evil greed, we need more such books to help us keep our balance while we fight to win for civilization. Too often the general public allows itself to be dominated by the evil forces that compel discouragement and finds no comfort in life; all the beauty of nature is intact in our own blessed land when it is possible to gain the needed tonic in health, by just a bit of walk in the open and deep study of the things one sees. We are bored not by living but by not living fully.

A most timely delightful stimulant to help shake off depression and give thought to better days to come.

Rations Of Sugar

The O. P. A. Advises Public Of Several Important Rulings

War ration sugar stamp No. 9 will be good for the purchase of three pounds of sugar between Nov. 1 and Dec. 15, the Office of Price Administration said. Stamp No. 9, which calls for five pounds, expires at midnight Oct. 31. Both stamps provide sugar for home use.

Allotments for institutional users, including hotels, restaurants and similar institutions, have been set at 6 percent of the sugar base established by them. An allotment of 85 percent has been established for hospitals treating patients suffering from acute illness and temporarily residing in the hospital. It is expected that the greater part of the sugar will be used for patients and that the doctors, nurses and hospital employees will be served the same as persons in other institutions.

Industrial users of sugar will receive during the November-December period 70 percent of the sugar base established by them. The ration period for industrial and institutional users begins Nov. 1, but application for allotments may be made up to Nov. 5.

Plane-Spotting

John M. Pomeroy who capably holds the position of Knox County Defense Co-Ordinator, said that all of the services are important, but that only through co-operation can they go forward. Telling of the new organization which is being formulated in this State he said that it will be possible to furnish personnel for whatever service is required.

"The Ground Observer Corps," said Major Baldrige, "is the spark-plug and self starter of the entire defense set-up. It covers the entire coast 24 hours a day, day and night, Sundays and holidays."

Explaining the method of action he declared that "without the thousand of watching eyes our defense machinery would never get into action. That is why the Army is here tonight. We think it is so important that we want to live right with it day and night."

"Why do they rely on civilians for this important work? Because the Army cannot afford to take so many hundreds of thousands of its best and most alert soldiers from combat duty to be observers."

Mayor Baldrige described the "Red Flash" service—an important signal which covers many and varied events, suspicious lights, all incidents, all submarines—anything that looks unusual or suspicious.

It is true that there are delays in calls to the filter center and sometimes with the telephone equipment. "We are constantly trying to improve both," said the speaker. All of the workers at the Filter Board are volunteers like you. Some are new at the game; some are slower. Flash calls pour in when traffic is heavy.

"Each observation post belongs body and soul to the local community. It is as much your local defense burden as Bunker Hill was to Boston. You organize it, operate it, and finance it. "We must not take the slightest chance with our homes, family and national security. He who scoffs, belittles or questions the value of the work is an unpatriotic citizen and should be severely dealt with."

"I know your troubles—no tires, no gasoline, lack of observers—but the work must go right on."

Llewellyn Fortier, State Director of the Air Observation Corps, said it had been planned to establish 592 observation posts, from Madawaska to Kittery, but because lack of phone facilities but 420 were established. There are seven districts and in some communities there are as many as 300 observers, the total number in Maine being 27,100. The American Legion, of which Fortier is a past department commander, took the initiative.

Mrs. Minnie Smith, president of the American Legion Auxiliary then presented a new American flag to Chairman Fortier who immediately turned it over to Austin P. Brewer, to whose diligence as chief observer the work conducted at the Owl's Head and Rockville posts has gone forward so successfully during the Summer months. It has meant that someone must keep everlastingly at it, and that's the kind of worker that this veteran of World War No. 1, Mr. Brewer has always proven himself.

Two reels of motion pictures bearing upon Uncle Sam's work completed a most interesting program.

A large proportion of these First Aiders are enrolled in defense work, in which knowledge First Aid is necessary. ## WAS ON ILL-FATED WASP

Reino Kangas of Rockland Slid Down Fire Hose Into Shark-Infested Waters

Reino O. Kangas, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Kangas, 270 Park street, who was on the Airplane Carrier Wasp when it was struck by three torpedoes the afternoon of Sept. 15 (Sept. 14th in Rockland), in the Solomon Island area, is home on a 30-days furlough. He arrived here Friday of last week but did not disclose the reason for his furlough until the news of the sinking of the Wasp was released Tuesday.

He was Radioman Second Class at the time of the destruction of the huge carrier, but took examinations aboard the transport on which he returned to this country and his new rating of Radioman First Class, goes into effect Nov. 1. Mr. Kangas was on watch, with 10 others, in the radio room, located directly under the bridge, when the vessel was torpedoed by a Japanese submarine. All three torpedoes—the first two coming nearly together—struck the forward magazine. Explosions were frequent and the gasoline tanks caught fire, heavy smoke preventing him from seeing just what was going on up forward. Battle ports were ordered closed and the men put on helmets and life jackets.

Kangas said that he lost all track of time, but stayed there with the others until told to leave, when the forward end of the carrier was all ablaze.

He, with the other men in the radio room, went to the after end of the flight deck, where he slid down a fire hose into the sea.

Kicking off his shoes, he swam about a mile to a destroyer. While he did not see any sharks, he was told there were plenty of them about.

One man picked up by the destroyer, did not understand why men on the destroyer were shooting all around him with revolvers, until he got aboard and was told that they were shooting at sharks. Kangas did not see the submarine which sent the torpedoes into the carrier, and for a while supposed that the vessel was being dive bombed.

After being aboard the destroyer a day, he was transferred to a cruiser where he stayed two days and then went on board a transport for a trip of several days to San Diego. The destroyer—most of the men in the water were picked up by destroyers—left the scene and he did not see the Wasp when it was finally sunk.

Barracks were all ready for the survivors when they landed at San Diego, where they were given new sea bags and clothing. Kangas lost everything excepting his dungarees.

He enlisted at Portland Feb. 5, 1940 and went aboard the Wasp at Boston early in May, as apprentice seaman. He progressed to Radioman Third Class, which rating he received in February 1941 and in November 1941 became Radioman Second Class.

Before enlisting Kangas had for several months operated an amateur radio station, of 50 watts capacity, WILYX at his home here. This was most all home made and was dismantled and disposed of before he enlisted. His training, before going aboard the Wasp, when commissioned, in April 1940, was at the Newport Training Station.

Kangas was home last in February of this year, when the Wasp was in Portland. On his way here he visited his sisters, Miss Ina Kangas and Miss Laura Kangas, who are employed in New York City. Two other sisters, Miss Vieno Kangas is in Boston, studying to be a hospital technician, and Miss Lempi Kangas is employed in the office at the People's Laundry. A brother, Onni, attends High School.

Reino, who is subburned and in excellent health, suffered no ill effects of his experience. When he returns, Nov. 15th, he hopes to be assigned to another carrier as he thinks that airplane carriers are what he terms "No. 1 ships."

Reino and his brother, Onni, who is having a three days vacation from school this week, are busily engaged at chopping the wood in a large pile at the rear of their home. However, Reino is finding time to call on his many friends in the city.—by Ray Sherman.

State Trooper Henry G. Roper was called to investigate the accident. The moose had evidently been killed instantly.

Bisbee's car was towed to Staples' Garage in Rockport, the front end being badly damaged. The estimated cost of repairs, Mr. Bisbee said, was $125.

G. W. Davis of Newcastle, warden of the Department of Inland Fisheries and Game, was called and took charge of the carcass. Mr. Bisbee was somewhat shaken up but was at his duties today.

Mr. Roper said that there were four animals in the "convoy," a bull-moose, two cow-moose and a calf.

The moose killed, weighed about 600 pounds and was probably about one and one-half years old.

Clauson's Advice

Inventory of Cigars and Cigarettes Should Be Taken At Once, He Says

Collector of Internal Revenue Clinton A. Clauson calls attention of cigar and cigarette dealers and manufacturers to the tax increases on large cigars and large and small cigarettes in the Revenue Act of 1942, just enacted. Since the new rates are effective Nov. 1, 1942, the Collector emphasizes the importance of all manufacturers and dealers in these products taking an actual inventory of stock on hand at the close of business Oct. 31.

The new Revenue Act imposes a floor stocks tax on these articles, which means that the difference between the old and the new rates of tax must be paid with respect to all large cigars and large and small cigarettes in the hands of dealers and manufacturers as at the close of business Oct. 31, 1942. Therefore, each and every cigar and cigarette dealer and manufacturer should take an accurate inventory at the close of business on Oct. 31 of all stamped cigars and cigarettes affected by the new law, regardless of the quantities in stock.

The floor stock tax return forms are now in the hands of the printer but because of the short time remaining between now and the 1st of November, it is a physical impossibility to make them available to dealers and manufacturers by that date. In taking the inventory, care should be exercised to record separately the stocks of stamped cigarettes, large and small, and the stocks of stamped large cigars retailing at various prices.

A SINCERE Thank you

DURING THE LATE summer and early fall, your telephone company found it necessary, because of dangerously high traffic loads, to ask you to cut down on your use of the telephone. That was because war calls were loading lines which could not be expanded because of war restrictions.

YOUR CO-OPERATION helped us over the late summer peak, normally the busiest time on our long-distance lines. Records indicate that many customers made sharp reductions in their calls, and that telephone users in general were understanding and tolerant of the unavoidable delay in handling their calls.

SERIOUS BOTTLENECKS still exist on lines to Washington, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Albany, Norfolk, Philadelphia. There are also a few communities in New England where local calling is exceeding switchboard capacity, notably in Newport, R. I., and in Hingham, Fitchburg and Taunton, Mass., and fewer calls to, from, and within these localities would help the war job.

DURING THE SUMMER your voluntarily imposed curtailment of calling enabled hard-pressed operators to speed important long-distance calls to their destinations. With war calls still demanding right-of-way, this curtailment is still in order.

THE TELEPHONE COMPANY and its employees are deeply grateful for the tolerance and understanding which were expressed orally and by letter during the period when the telephone traffic situation was most critical.

John Doherty's Life Devoid Of Adventure But Replete With Action

Here you behold a well known citizen who is perhaps the youngest appearing man of his age in Rockland. Come next April (the 27th, to be exact) 85 candles will be required to illuminate his birthday cake.

John Edward Doherty, a well known Rockland man, whose native wit comes naturally with his Irish extraction, has never had any exciting adventures, and so far as he knows his life has never been imperiled, but his career has nevertheless had rather more quips and quirks than befall the average citizen.

Born in Thomaston, April 27, 1858, he was a son of John and Mary (Hanrahan) Doherty. His father was long identified with the Knox County lime business, digging rock in his three quarries for F. Cobb & Co.

Shirley Barbour of Eastport is visiting this week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Barbour, Oak street. Mrs. Barbour, teacher in the Eastport schools, who has been attending the Teachers' Convention in Lewiston, is expected here today.

Clifford W. A. Oliver is manager at the A & P. store, while Alfred G. Crawford is on a two weeks' vacation hunting trip.

Huntley-Hill Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, without a home several months, since it moved from the former Gallie Temple building, corner of Ocean and Water streets, will occupy this week-end the well arranged quarters over the Star Bowling Alleys, 10 Park street, formerly used as a residence by the late John L. Thomas family. Arrangements for the new quarters were made by Oliver R. Hamlin, a past department and past post commander. Rath Cline of Spruce Head, senior vice-commander of the post, will be top ranking officer of the post this Winter, while Charles Hill, commander, is employed in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Ada Payson will be hostess at a game party at Grand Army Hall, Monday afternoon at 2:15. Picnic supper will be served at 6 o'clock for members of Ruth Mayhew Tent, D.U.V., and regular meeting will be at 7:30. All who have parts in minstrel show, will come prepared for rehearsal.

Plans for a Christmas sale to be held early in December, were made at a recent meeting of Winslow-Holbrook Unit, American Legion Auxiliary. Reports were given concerning the district council meeting held in Bath, and it was voted to present an American flag for the local observation post.

Hear Interesting Law Tales From a Former King Lion

A distinguished member of the Rockland Lions Club gave some personal observations in regard to the legal profession Wednesday and his brother members listened to him with the keenest enjoyment.

The speaker was Frank A. Tirrell, Jr., a past president of the organization, in whom the desire to practice law was well grounded, for his father and grandfather were attorneys before him.

Love for animals, and his success in handling them, had convinced Tirrell that he should become a farmer, but one day he saw his father accept $2 for answering a question, and like "the tide in the affairs of men" it settled what his life's vocation was to be.

He told of his studies at the Maine Law School, now defunct, and of his admission to the Bar despite his over confidence as to the definition of "Equity," and of the wait for clients which ensued after he had opened his office.

A lawyer, the speaker said, must be careful not to use snap judgment; he needs time to look a matter up so that he may advise his client properly.

Followed a recital of interesting cases and interesting personal experiences. At the expense of Lion Frank F. Harding he told of the latter's cross questioning as to the size of a rock used in an assault case, and how the witness had said: "It was about as large as your head, Your Honor, but not quite so thick."

"Were you ever convicted of a crime?" Tirrell asked a witness one day—and found the question to be a boomerang for the answer was: "You ought to know, for you were my lawyer when I was found guilty."

"Judge Campbell was a dangerous opponent in a case," said Tirrell, "for he had a way of making the jurors like him and agree with him."

The speaker, who said that he frequently undertook to discourage applicants from seeking a divorce, told of a particularly unsavory case which had lasted two days. The presiding judge finally said: "I have concluded to allow them to wallow in their own filth." "And do you know," said Tirrell, "that couple has lived together for 18 years, happy and respected."

Tirrell has been counsel in five murder cases, which he reviewed in a brief but highly interesting manner.

Attention was called by King Lion Conant to the zone meeting in the Camden parish house Nov. 10.

The Rockland Lions will omit their meeting Nov. 11 because of Armistice Day.

Mr. MacKenzie of Scituate, Mass. was a guest Wednesday.

Tryouts for the Rockland High School Senior Class play, "June Mad," will be held Wednesday and Thursday, following school, and the first rehearsal will be Friday.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Except in years John Doherty has steadfastly refused to grow old, and could almost prove by his head of thick, black hair that he is much younger than the family Bible shows.

WELL KNOWN ROCKLAND MAN

ing foreman for his uncle, Cornelius Harahan, in the lime business.

In 1900 Mr. Doherty began what proved to be an extended connection with transportation companies—first as clerk at Maine Central wharf for the Maine Central Railroad which was then operating the steamer Frank Jones between Rockland and Portland, and the steamer Pennaquit between Rockland and Dark Harbor.

In 1906 he went to Boston to engage in organization work for the Maine Coast Transportation Company of which Gen. Brigham was president. He established the rates for the steamships Mohawk and Massasoit running between Rockland and Eastport.

Three years later he was back in Rockland serving as deputy sheriff, under the late Sheriff Adelbert J. Tolman. Serving three years in that capacity he became a guard at the Maine State Prison under Warden Waterhouse, and it was while at the Thomaston institution that he compiled the prison records from 1854 to 1915, an extremely difficult and painstaking task.

Variety has certainly been the spice of life in this man's career for next he is found in the Rockland office of the American Express Company, of which the late Charles M. Harrington was then agent. From here he went to Presque Isle, assigned to the management of this important Aroostook County office.

A year there and he was transferred to Portland as transfer man and spare messenger. There he remained until 1929, when he once more came to Rockland to serve one and one-half years as day clerk in the Narragansett Hotel.

And then he retired—if one can ever retire who has the care of a good-sized garden and orchard and inevitable household details.

John Doherty harks back over his long career with many a pleasant recollection of the incidents which it has contained. There was music, for instance. Had its beginning with him when he tooted a cornet in the old Meadow Band, led by the late Col. G. F. Meservey, of beloved memory. The band numbered about 12 pieces, and lasted about 10 years.

Then Col. Meservey organized the famous Meservey Quintet, the members of which were G. F. Meservey, clarinet, John E. Doherty, cornet; James O'Neil, alto; Alex. McDonald, baritone and Maynard S. Austin, bass. The fame of the Meservey organization spread rapidly, and it was called upon to fill many engagements along the coast.

There are wheels within wheels, and when entertainers did not wish to go to the expense of the Quintet, Col. Meservey threw "The Big Four" into the breach. This organization comprised Col. Meservey, clarinet; Mr. Doherty, cornet; Charles "Twister" Demuth, violin and prompter; and Henry G. Tibbetts, bass viol.

Volumes could be written about the experiences of the two organizations which were playing up and down the State when square dances were in vogue, and there was the real rhythm of the good old fashioned waltz.

Mr. Doherty today is an ardent well posted baseball fan, but gets no more kick out of the world's series than he did while playing with those glorious teams of olden days—the Dirigos and Chicawauks. John's position was shortstop, and in one game, unforgettable with him, he accepted an amazing number of chances.

The players in those early days wore no gloves, although later the catcher and first baseman had that equipment, and eventually the catcher's manly front was covered with a chest protector. Oldtimers will recall Fred Burns, who caught for the Rockland team barchanded, and without mask or chest protector.

Conspicuous among the players of that period was J. A. (Allie) Burpee whose proud achievements included mastery of the art of curved pitching. He has always claimed, without contradiction that he was the first pitcher in the country to throw a curved ball. Nearing the age of 80 his memory of those glorious days is still very real.

Back to politics. Mr. Doherty has been clerk to the Board of Assessors, chairman of the Registration Board four years, chairman of the Democratic City committee five years, and a member of the Democratic committee.

He is a member of St. Bernard's Church.

Except in years John Doherty has steadfastly refused to grow old, and could almost prove by his head of thick, black hair that he is much younger than the family Bible shows.

In Class Play

Camden Girls Have Important Roles At The Oak Grove School

Saturday night Cynthia Rich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rich of Richmond, played the role of "Deborah Read," in a charming play featuring Benjamin Franklin when he first arrived in Philadelphia and was much in need of friends. Deborah was the young woman who laughed at him the first time she saw him on the streets but later became Mrs. Franklin.

The role of William, servant at the inn who recognized the need and talent in young Franklin was well portrayed by Mattina Proctor, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Proctor.

The costumes were effective and the stage setting quite authentic and the entire play reminiscent of early Colonial days. This is one of the plays that the Dramatic classes are giving at Oak Grove which portray episodes from the lives of American patriots.

Assistant director in the production was Joan Perry, also of Camden, who is a member of the Senior Board of the Honorary Dramatics Society, Masque and Dirk which plays an important part each week in producing the Class plays.

This And That

By K. S. F.

It did not happen here but it did happen at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas:

Lieut. Ted O'Sullivan and two other officers met a rookie on a street and the fellow saluted as he raised three fingers of his left hand.

"What's that for," asked the officers.

"Well," said the private, "I'm new here and I wanted to be sure I greeted each of you so I raised a finger for each officer."

Even the oyster and clam shells can be used today, for valuable by-products are processed from them.

Curfew

Off on a mound of rising ground I hear the far-off curfew sound. It comes o'er wide and distant shore

Against the winds in tolling score. 'Tis time for sleep and gentle rest. This bell reminds with stolid quest Children must grow, youths must prepare

For strength; thus curfew spells repair.

From State Chat:

At Schoomack lives Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton Hartgrove who has done considerable searching in the Katahdin region for Indian relics, including evidences of the very ancient red-paint Indians. She has in her collection burial stones and lucky stones and many kinds of Indian tools. A string of beads is authoritatively identified as produced in South America in the early centuries, and used in trade among Indians even at this distance. These had been dug from the soil, singly, and finally formed into a string by Mrs. Hartgrove, who states that this was one of the most highly valued items of her collection. They are of porcelain, in white and blue, with red paint shade, only one bead of this latter color appearing in the string.

What of the campaign for the gathering of waste paper, fats, and tin cans? I listen to sad stories of householders who store and save of these essentials, then dispose of them to the dump heaps or to burn. Why not have these all taken proper care of by some committee?

If one wondered why The Courier-Gazette office was so full of golden light recently, it was all because of the gorgeous marigolds "rich as the crown of a King" interspersed with deep blue bachelor's buttons that Miss Annie Frost generously arranged and brought to the desk of This and That. A heart full of thanks is the result.

The Christian Science committee on publication sends out for newspaper use a series of brilliant and soul lifting "Gems of Thought" that This and That used often with a feeling of uplift and pride. Here is one from Socrates with a thoughtful lesson in it: "The surest way to live with honor in the world is to be in reality what we appear to be."

And now they make candy with sweet potatoes and call it "Yam-yam nougat." There has been salt water taffy for some time but potatoes in confections is the last word in surprise.

Modern daughter: "Mother always is wanting me to confide in her and tell her everything, but I don't know what good it would do her—at her age."

If there are any of The Courier-Gazette readers who skip the Sermonettes by William A. Holman, they do for themselves a great injustice. He gives much food for thought in a highly expressive and intelligent manner that is well worth your while to heed. There are soul vitamins in Will Holman's messages.

China will not stop fighting nor will she shrink from any sacrifice until the very last aggressors give up arms, says the great Chiang Kai-shek. America and Britain will hold fast for absolute and continued peace.

Wise moments boast not of customers who come in but of customers who come back with the cash.

At The High School

By The Pupils

Senior High assembly, Tuesday morning, was highlighted by the address of Ensign Forrest Richardson of the local section base. Mr. Richardson spoke of the traditions of the Navy, dwelling principally on the Tradition of Victory.

This tradition, of vital importance to all of us, started with the Revolutionary War. It has been carried right up to the present day by such men as: John Paul Jones, Captain Hull, Farragut, Dewey, Admiral Simms, and the young men of this war who have seen action and been decorated. The tradition has been borne out in the four major fleet actions in which the Navy has engaged and came out on top.

Ensign Richardson also spoke of several minor traditions: The choice of navy blue as the standard color for uniforms of sailors; the oak leaves of the supply corps, representing the old oak ships of the time; bell bottom trousers which may be easily rolled up so as to avoid getting them wet; and the black silk neckerchief, originally used as a "sweat rag."

He explained that many of the traditions come from the British Navy.

He further stated that boys and girls should remain in school until they graduate for the navy has become so complicated and highly technical that it is necessary that recruits have the highest education possible.

Devotions were led by Marjorie Mills—Byron Keene.

Pine Cone Troop

Happy and Successful Meeting in Observance of Girl Scout Week

Pine Cone Troop, Girl Scouts, held a very successful meeting this week in observance of Girl Scout Week.

During the business meeting it was decided to work on the First Aid Badge starting next week. Each girl is to go equipped with a pencil, notebook and triangular bandage or Scout kerchief.

A brief story of the life of Juliette Low, founder of the Girl Scouts, was read.

Last Saturday Nathalie Post delivered the Library books; this week Jane Perry and Ann Bartlett will take them.

After the business was concluded the girls went outdoors for their flag ceremony. When they returned to their rooms to sew, they were very much surprised to find the rooms lighted only by candles, which dimly showed a skeleton, witches, pumpkins and other Halloween decorations. Amid much merriment the girls bobbed for apples, everyone being successful except Kay Stevens and Helen Fickett who told an original ghost story as a forfeit. Halloween refreshments were served.

The meeting adjourned with Taps and a Wishing Circle. There are four new members, Virginia Barnard, Evelyn Clark, Beverly Merchant and Kay Stevens. This fills the troop for the time being but other eighth graders who are interested may be put on the waiting list until vacancies occur.

At a meeting of Morning Glory Girl Scout Troop and committee members held this week, it was decided to divide the troop into two groups, the 7th grade group meeting Monday afternoons at 3:45 with Miss Helen Fisher as leader, with Mrs. Earl Perry, Mrs. Erwin Spear, Mrs. Howard Proctor and Mrs. Robert Paul, assisting. The 5th and 6th grade group will meet Tuesday afternoons at 3:45 with Miss Fisher as leader, assisted by Mrs. Pearl Studley, Mrs. Raymond Perry and Mrs. Almon Young. These meetings are to be held at the American Legion Hall.

SERMONETTE

Our Jewish Brethren
Fifty-seven hundred years is quite a bit of time. It is equal to three times the Christian era. It represents the life of man upon this planet, that can be compassed in the span we know as history.

This Fall our Jewish friends celebrated their New Year 5703. This long period is insignificant even as a yardstick in measuring the age of the planet itself. Figure it out. The Proterozoic period, the first life that has left a distinct record, known as the Primordial life is estimated at 1,335,000,000 years. The Paleozoic, covering the age of amphibians, shells and fishes 345,000,000 years. The Mesozoic, intermediate life, the age of reptiles 117,000,000 years. The Cenozoic, or recent life, the age of mammals, man and plants of modern types 60,000,000 years.

These are estimates of science. Anthropologists estimate that man has walked erect upon this earth for more than 240,000 years before the Jewish historians began their notations of events.

What did man do with his spare time in this 234,300 years? It is useless to speculate. How much we owe to the Jewish people whom Hitler and others like him despise and would exterminate. They laid the foundation for Christianity, because of their insistence that there was but one true God. More than one-half of the Old Testament is devoted to history and biography. The Bible is never independent of history, it is history. The faith you profess rests on facts.

Jewish merchants in Portland opened their New Year by inserting an advertisement explaining why their places were closed. First, that they might gather to pray; second to pray for victory and in God's own time for peace; third to confess their sins and pray for forgiveness on the day of atonement. So they commenced a New Year. They prayed also that they might keep wholeheartedly their ancient faith "from Egypt until now."

W. A. Holman

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon that will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Nov. 1. The Golden Text is: "My son, despise not the chastening of the Lord; neither be weary of his correction: for whom the Lord loveth he correcteth; even as a father the son in whom he delighteth" (Proverbs 3:11-12). The citations from the Bible include the following passages: "If his children forsake my law, and walk not in my judgments; Then will I visit their transgression with the rod, and their iniquity with stripes. Nevertheless my loving kindness will I not utterly take from him, nor suffer my faithfulness to fail" (Psalms 89:30, 32, 33).

Sunday at the Littlefield Memorial Baptist Church, the pastor, Rev. C. A. Marsteller, will speak at 10:30 on "The Triumph of the Church." One member, Raymond Kennedy, was reported a patient at the Damariscotta hospital.

Scrap Big Lathe

came to the fore. Loading the columns aboard ocean-going scows on the Maine coast was comparatively easy, despite the great weight of the stone. Unloading them in New York, at the foot of 110th street, transportation up the slope to Amsterdam avenue and erection of the 38-foot and 18-foot monoliths in the chance of the cathedral was another problem. It remained for Jones Brothers company of Barre to carry through this exacting assignment successfully. The story of the land transportation is graphically told in the booklet, "Four Brothers," recently issued in connection with the company's 60th anniversary.

Quoting a New York newspaper of 1900, the booklet says: "The first column was rolled off the big barge, Benjamin Franklin, at 10 o'clock, when the tide had risen just enough to bring the deck of the barge on a level with the skids which had been laid from the boat to terra firma. By the time the first great stone had been laid on solid ground, the deck of the Benjamin Franklin had risen above the wharf and the huge skids lay at an angle rendering the unloading of the second impossible. The workmen settled down to a long wait for the tide to fall to the requisite level, which it did about 4 o'clock, when the second column was rolled ashore."

Moving Columns On Land Difficult

Jones Brothers company found it necessary to build a special wagon and engage a tractor engine and three steam hoists. In the construction of the wagon they had the expert assistance of the late Warren Howland of Barre, a well-known granite setter of his day. The axles were solid steel, eight inches in diameter, the wheels made of oak 20 inches thick and capped with one-inch steel tires.

E. D. Palmer of Washington street, a long-time quarry superintendent in Graniteville, was one of Mr. Howland's assistants and he vividly recalls some of the difficulties encountered in getting the columns to their destination up the slope from the foot of 110th street. All kinds of permits had to be secured for hauling over the crowded city streets. There were times when long lines of street cars were held up, much to the disgust and ill-feeling of the passengers. At one stage a minor break down made it necessary to flag one of the crack New York Central trains as it headed for the 125th street station.

On arrival at the cathedral site the columns were placed in position by a two-pole Oregon pine derrick 106 feet long and 30 inches in diameter at the base and with the use of a huge oak clamp and Lewis iron they were hoisted by three winches. The eight 38-inch columns were set in place and then the 18-foot columns lifted and put on top.

According to the narrative in the Jones Brothers brochure the whole job took more than a year to complete. When finished, however, not a nick of any kind was found in any of the columns.

Lathe Looked Over By Army and Navy

There was no more need of a turning lathe of such dimensions. The machine was purchased by the late Fred A. Greason, and in turn, it became the property of Rock of Ages when Greason and Lane company sold its plant in 1930. At the outset of the present war there was a prospect that the turning equipment might be converted to the manufacture of heavy guns. It has been carefully examined by experts from both the army and the navy. Lacking the precision necessary for turning out cannon, the lathe was headed toward the scrap heap this week in time to count heavily in Barre's quota.
